Introduction

There are more than a few tips and tricks that I have picked up from my years as a cam girl. I have gone from having simply 1 fan to having over 500,000 fans. Of course, that means that I make the big bucks (I make over $50,000 a month).

Now you may be thinking that it's too good to be true that someone could make that much money simply from being a model, but it's not.

Just think about how much pornstars make. The average pornstars makes around $800 to $1,000 a day. That's just from being in a scene that did not make. Now think about how much the producers are making off the scene if the pornstars are making that much off it. Now you're getting the picture.

Pornstars who do nothing but act a little vet a lot of money. You on the other hand are doing more than acting for your users, you're also interacting with them. That is why cam girls make more money in comparison to pornstars.
So, in this guide I'm going to teach you all of my tips and tricks on how to make the most money as a cam girl.

Chapter 2 Picking Out A Webcam

When first starting off as a camgirl you are going to need a webcam that does not make your show look cheap. Yes, you can use the little cam built into your laptop, but that does not mean you should. Save up from your first few shows and buy something that gives your viewers a clear picture.

When you are looking for a webcam, a few features matter more than a fancy box or a long list of specs:

- Start at 1080p and 30 frames per second. Use 60 frames per second if you move around a lot. 4K is useful for recording and cropping, but most cam sites will not show your room in 4K.
- Autofocus helps when you move closer to the camera. If it keeps hunting and making you blurry, lock the focus in the camera software.
- Manual exposure and white balance controls matter. They stop your skin tone and brightness from changing every time you move.
- Get a camera with a standard tripod screw so you can move it away from the laptop and find a better angle.
- A built in microphone is enough to start. A separate USB microphone will sound better once you have money coming in.
- Lighting still matters. Even an expensive webcam looks bad in a dark room, so put soft light in front of you instead of relying on the ceiling light.

Now that you know what to look for, it is time to look at the webcams worth buying. These four cover the useful price range without filling the list with old models:

1. Elgato Facecam Neo

This is the cheap camera on the list, but it does not look cheap. It streams at 1080p and 60 frames per second, has autofocus, and screws onto a normal tripod. The 77 degree view is wide enough for most bedroom setups without showing the whole room. It is a good first webcam when you want to spend around $40 to $60.

2. Logitech C920s

This is the old reliable choice. It streams at 1080p and 30 frames per second, has autofocus, a 78 degree view, dual microphones, and a tripod thread. It is not the newest looking camera, but it is easy to set up and usually costs around $70. Buy this one when you want something proven and do not care about 60 frames per second.

3. Elgato Facecam MK.2

This is for models who want a cleaner 1080p picture and more control. It streams at 1080p and 60 frames per second, handles low light better than the cheaper choices, and Camera Hub lets you adjust exposure, white balance, and framing. The focus is fixed, so keep the camera about 12 to 47 inches away. It has no built in microphone, so plan on using a separate mic. It normally costs around $120.

4. Logitech MX Brio

This is the premium pick. It can stream at 4K and 30 frames per second or 1080p and 60 frames per second. It gives you 65, 78, and 90 degree views, plus manual controls for exposure, white balance, ISO, and shutter speed. The bigger sensor does a better job in rough lighting than the old Brio. It works with a tripod and usually costs around $200. If your budget can handle it, this is the one I would buy.

Now that you know the webcams worth buying, you should also know what to avoid. These are the choices that save a little money at first and make your show look worse every night:

1. Cheap 720p webcams

Do not waste money on a random 720p webcam because it has a ring light or says HD on the box. Most of them give you soft detail, ugly color, and very little control. A cheap camera that makes your show look blurry is not a bargain.

2. The camera built into your laptop

The camera built into your laptop is fine for a quick call. It is usually not fine for a paid show. The angle is bad, the sensor is tiny, and the built in mic picks up every fan and keyboard sound in the room.

Personally I would go with the Logitech MX Brio if the money is there. It gives you the best picture on this list, 1080p and 60 frames per second for movement, 4K for recording and cropping, and enough manual control to keep your skin tone from changing every time you move. If $200 is too much, the Facecam Neo or C920s will still get you started without making the show look cheap.

After reading this chapter you should be able to find a webcam that will rock your shows as well as your bank account. Camera quality really does matter when it comes to making money modeling. No one wants to watch a blurry show where they can not tell what the model is doing. Buy the best camera you can afford, light the room properly, and learn the settings before you go live.

Chapter 3 Finding The Perfect Computer

Finding the perfect computer should be your next priority. A slow laptop can make your stream stutter, freeze your camera software, and waste time that should be spent making money.

You may be too broke to buy the best computer from the start, but do not keep replacing cheap machines. Save your money, buy enough power once, and get back to your shows.

These are the features that matter when you are buying a computer for camming:

- RAM: 16GB is the minimum. Streaming, browser tabs, music, camera software, and OBS can eat through 8GB fast. Buy 24GB or 32GB if you edit a lot of video or stream to more than one place.
- Storage: Get at least a 512GB SSD. A 1TB SSD is better if you keep photos and recorded shows on the computer. Move finished work to an external SSD instead of filling the laptop until it slows down.
- Processor: An Apple M1 chip or newer is enough for most cam work. For Windows, look for a recent Ryzen 5 or 7, or an Intel Core Ultra 5 or 7. Do not buy an ancient bargain laptop because the seller calls it fast.
- Ports: Make sure the webcam, microphone, light, and Ethernet adapter can all connect. A powered USB hub is cheaper than discovering your new laptop does not have enough ports during a show.
- Internet: The computer cannot fix bad internet. Use wired Ethernet when you can, test your upload speed, and keep Wi-Fi as the backup instead of trusting it for every paid show.
- Size and cooling: A 13 to 16 inch laptop is easy to move around the room. The MacBook Pro has active cooling, which gives it more breathing room during long streams than a fanless laptop.

Do not choose a computer because the built in webcam looks good in the store. You are still better off using a separate webcam that can sit on a tripod and give you the angle you want.

Here are the computers that make sense without wasting money on old junk:

1. Used MacBook Pro with an M chip and 16GB RAM

BEST VALUE

This is the one I would look for first. An M1, M2, M3, M4, M5, or newer MacBook Pro can handle normal cam shows without making you pay for the newest model. The important part is getting at least 16GB of memory and a 512GB SSD. Check the battery, ports, screen, charger, and Activation Lock before handing over your money.

2. New or Apple refurbished MacBook Pro

Buy new or Apple refurbished if you want a warranty and do not want to inspect a used machine. You still do not need the most expensive chip. Start with 16GB of memory, then spend extra on storage before paying for power you will never use.

Before buying used

- Confirm it has 16GB RAM. You cannot upgrade Apple unified memory later.
- Make sure Activation Lock and Find My are removed.
- Check battery health, every port, the keyboard, camera, and charger.
- Run a test stream before the return window closes.

3. A Windows laptop that meets the same rules

Windows is fine. Get 16GB of RAM, a 512GB SSD, and a recent Ryzen 5 or 7, or Intel Core Ultra 5 or 7. Make sure the RAM is not stuck at 8GB and check that the laptop can run your webcam software before the return period ends.

My favorite is a used MacBook Pro with any M chip and at least 16GB of RAM. You do not need the newest model. A clean used M1 MacBook Pro can run your webcam, music, browser tabs, OBS, and camera software at the same time without turning the show into a frozen mess. The Pro model also has active cooling for long sessions. Put the money you save into better lighting, sound, and a reliable internet connection.

Now that you know what to look for, go shopping with the specifications written down. Do not let a seller distract you with a huge screen, a built in webcam, or a sticker that says gaming. For cam work, memory, a solid processor, fast storage, enough ports, and a stable internet connection matter more.

Buy the best machine you can afford, test a full private show setup before you need it, and keep your old computer as a backup if it still works. A broken laptop should not be able to shut down your income for a week.

Chapter 4 Your New Studio

Now for the fun part of the book, designing your new studio. Your studio is able to be anything that you want it to be. The best way to do your studio is to have it be set up in a spare bedroom. However, you can also just turn your bedroom into a studio.

The first thing that you are going to want to do is pick out a theme for your studio. To do this you are going to have to figure out what kind of person you are going to be on cam (we'll get to the whole picking an on cam personality thing later in the book). So, once you have decided on your theme you just have to match everything in your studio to that theme.

Paint is probably the first thing I would do. It may take a week or two, but it's relatively cheap. So, start off by deciding what shade of paint is going to go great with your theme. Maybe some black and red paint both and dominant. Or perhaps some pinks and purples for princess or submissive. The paint shouldn't be overly expensive, less than $200 to repaint your studio probably.

Next you are going to want to think about carpet. Yes, carpet. Users do see everything in your studio, and you will probably do a show or two on your carpet. This means that you are going to have to find some carpet that goes along with how you painted your studio.

After finding the perfect carpet you are going to want to move onto furniture next. Furniture is going to be fun to pick out, but it can be a little pricey depending on where you are at. First, I would start off with buying a new bed for your studio (unless you are turning your bedroom into the studio, then you probably already have a bed). For the bed you are again going to want to go along with your theme. I have a canopy bed in my studio, and the effect of having it there is amazing. Of course, you should go with what is affordable for you. However, you should also make sure that you are ready to spend a decent amount because beds are not cheap. I would go with a bed you could comfortably lay on for at least 3 or 4 hours at a time.

After the bed you are going to want to buy a couch for your studio. This couch should also be matching your theme. I highly recommend not getting leather. You are probably going to be sweating a lot or covered in lubricants at some point during your show. When that happens you are going to find leather very annoying. I would just pick something soft with a nice material that is easy to clean. Just tell the furniture person that you have 3 kids (you might not even be lying) and they ruin your couches with stains. They will probably know what the best material is for getting messes cleaned off without leaving stains.

After having bought a couch you are going to want to buy an office desk and chair. These will be very helpful for you in the long run in your studio. Of course, make sure they match up with your theme, but also you probably shouldn't go spending hundreds of dollars on this item. This will be so that you can set your laptop up and have a decent working space for when you are social networking or writing on your blog (we'll get to that stuff later).

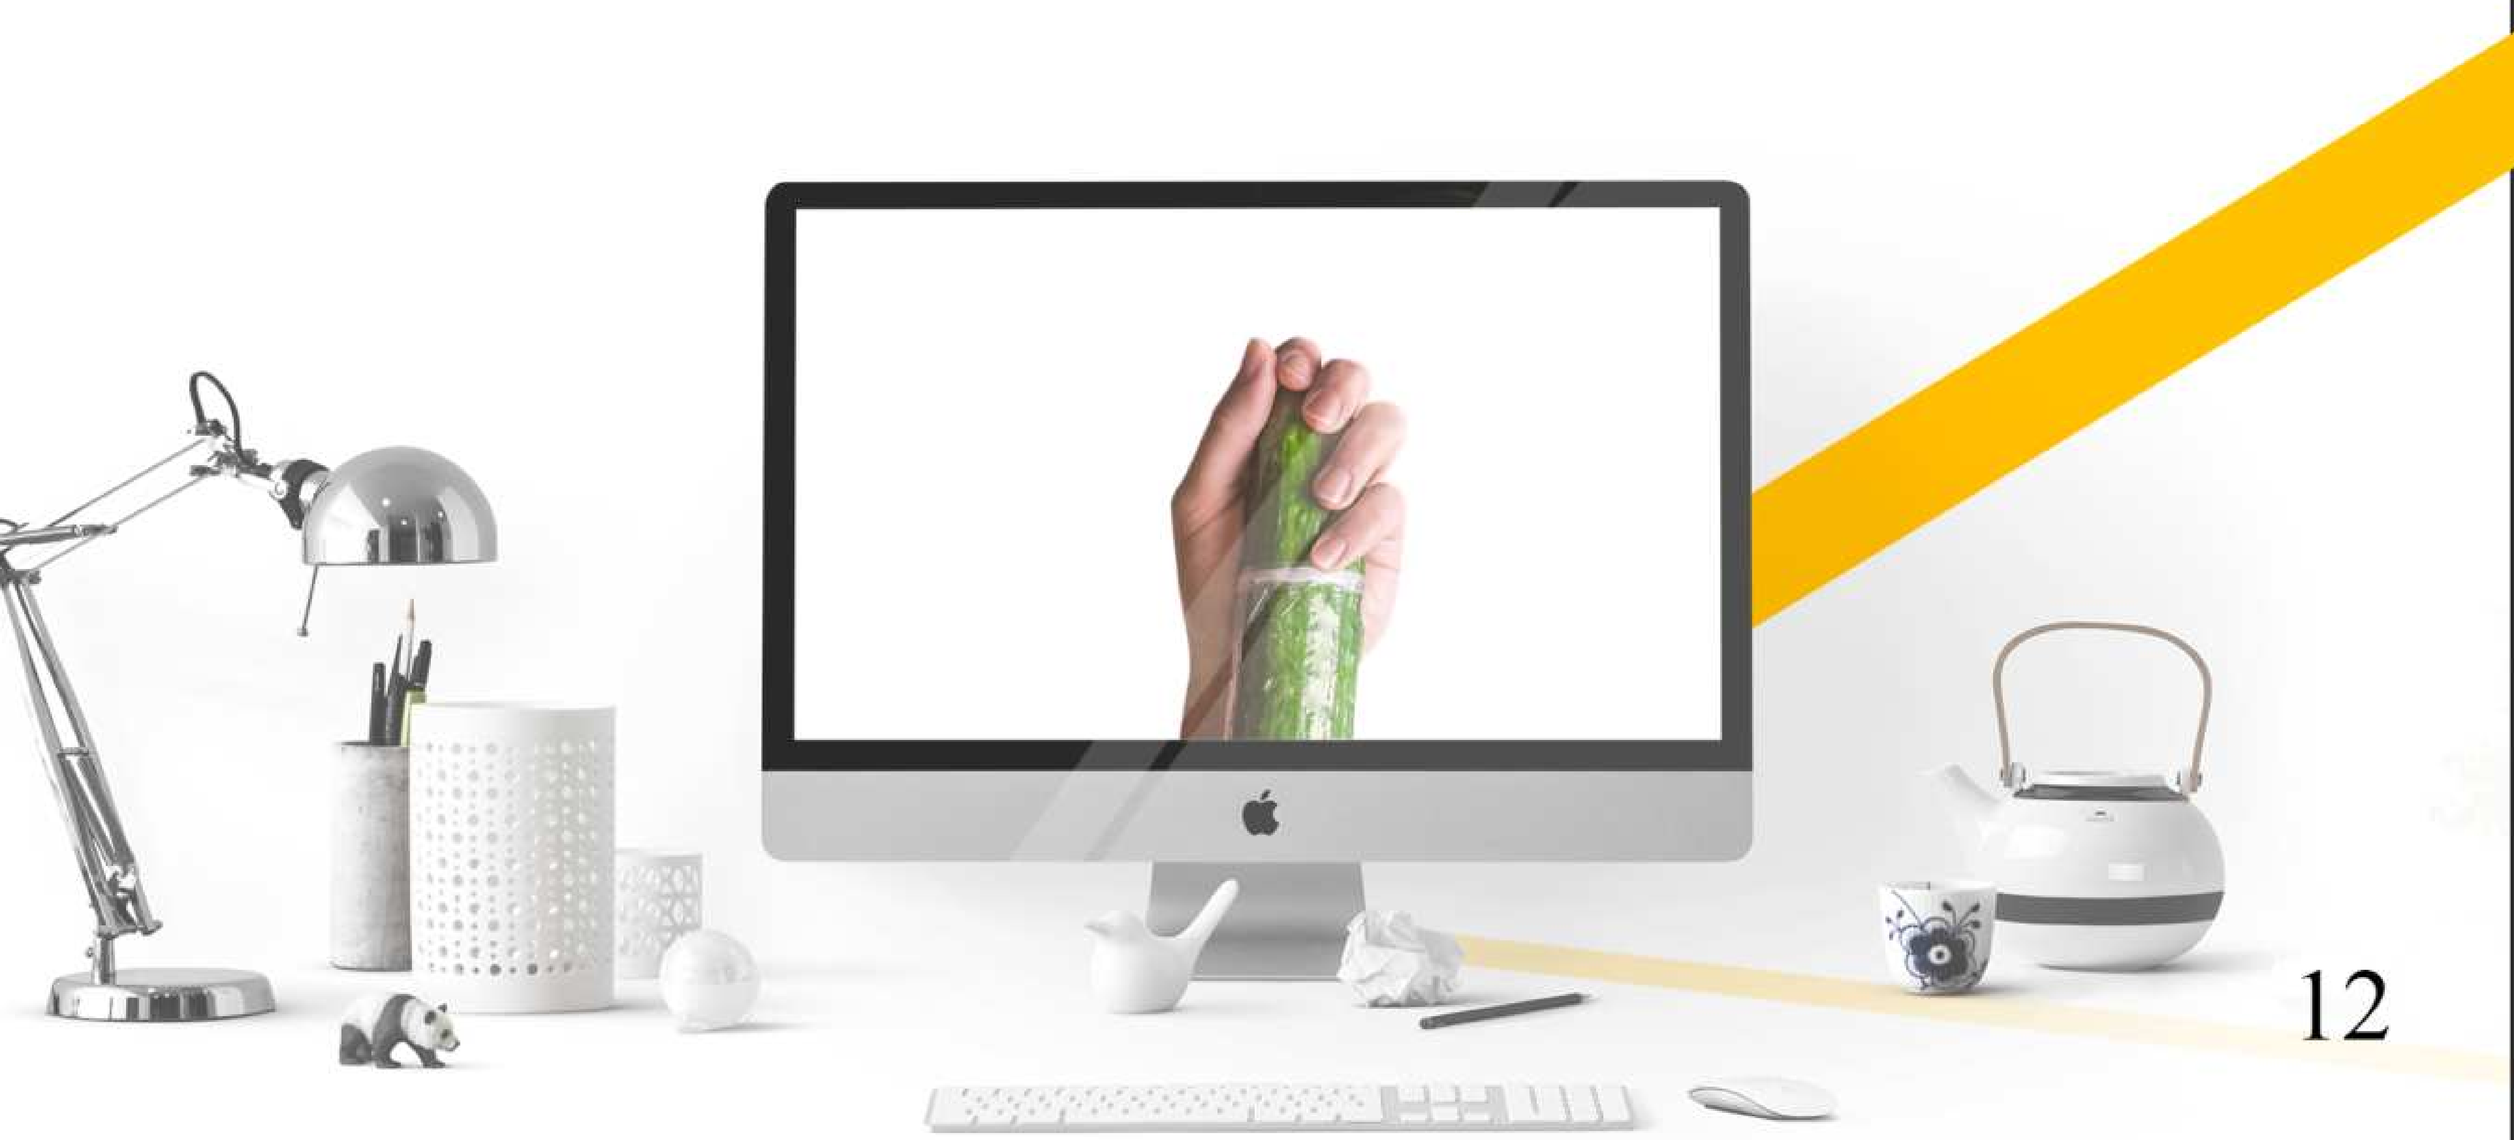

Next you might also want to buy another sitting or lounging piece of furniture for your studio. I find myself moving from furniture to furniture during shows, and it's nice to have the extra sitting space around. Plus, it's also great to have more room to sit for guest appearances on your show. This piece of furniture should also go with the theme of your studio.

Now that we have gone through furniture, we should talk lamps. While the webcam that you have bought is probably good with adjusting to different lighting settings, you still want to provide some extra light for it to go off of. I would buy 3 or 4 low light lamps. These lamps, of course, should match the theme of your studio. Set up these lamps at different points in your studio until you find have the perfect amount of lighting when you are on cam.

After lamps you are going to want to buy some small decorations for your studio. These should be matching the theme that you have going your studio. My theme is goth, so I have a bunch of random stuff like skulls, red candles, black candles, black stones, etc. If you were going with the princess theme you could have stuffed animals all around, butterfly dishes with colorful sea glass, crowns, etc. It really just depends on your theme. Just make sure that you don't spend too much money on your random decorations. I spent around $80 on my randoms.

Now that we have discussed painting, carpets, beds, couches, office desks, lamps, and random decorations, you are equipped with the knowledge that you need to start building onto your studio. This is the funnest part of being a model, other than buying the toys and outfits (we'll get to that in the next chapter).

If you feel like your studio is missing anything after going through and buying all of this stuff you might be over decorating. However, it also depends on how big your studio is as to how you decorate. My studio is around the normal size of a bedroom (I just made use of one of my spare bedrooms). If your studio is bigger than that you might feel tempted to buy more furniture, and that is completely fine. Just make sure that you are not over doing anything. With all of this in mind, you can now start having fun with decorating and buying cool stuff for your new studio.

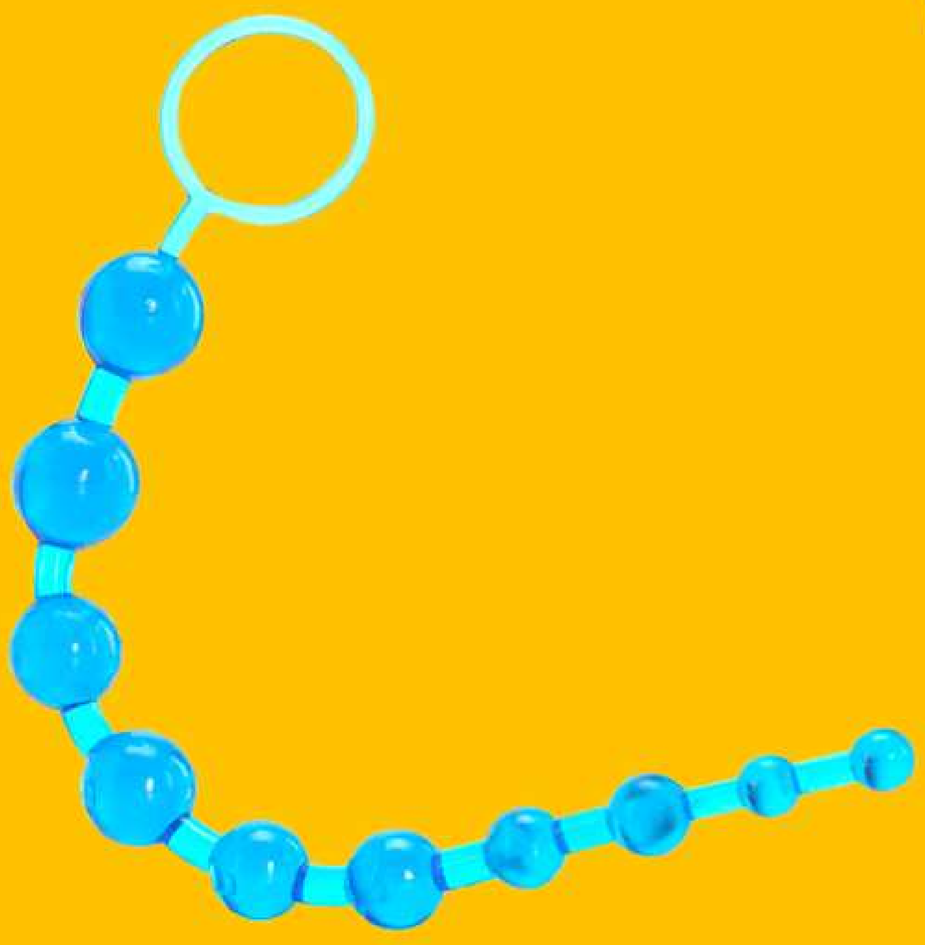

Chapter 5 Sex Toys And Outfits

Sex toys and outfits are a must have for every cam girl. You can find this out simply by watching any webcam show (that's doing good). However, you probably never realized just how many toys there are out there and what their intended purpose is. So, I have created a list of all of the sex toys that I have come across (some I have, some I don't, but I have tried all of them with partners and some without partners)

1. Dildo

This is one of the most common sex toys ever, and that is why I started with it. Yes, this absolutely should be your first buy for your cam shows if you don't already have one.

2. Anal Beads

These are a set of balls that are combined together. These balls are meant to be inserted into your ass, as the name suggests. They are really great for cam shows, users love to see them in action. They are most of the time going to be starting out small and then getting larger toward the end. These are actually loads of fin to play with and they can be pulled out right at the point of climax for a better orgasm. They are strange to use to some, and you might want to use and anal dushe as well as take some medication to make your poop flow stop.

3. Ball Gag

These are an amazing sex toy for on cam with a partner and off cam with a partner. No, they are not that fun without a partner (but for masturbating they are good for making you get off if you have a good imagination). There will probably be times where if you have this and users knowyou have this they will ask you to where it during a performance even though you have no partner. It may feel strange at first, but you get used to it. For those that are mouth breathers, but the one with a hole in it to breathe through. After that you should practice controlling your breath before you do a show with it.

4. Blind Fold

The blind fold has been used for a long time. It can add some fun to your show. However, the only way to successfully use this on a show is to have a partner with you. Otherwise you won't be able to see your users talking on the screen. Also, you wouldn't be able to move around freely. However, those that do have someone to partner up with for a show should certainly use this toy, it is amazing!

5. Vibrators

Yes, vibrators are great for shows. They are probably the second most needed item for your toy box. They come in many different forms for many different stimulation types. They can be used on your clit, dick, nipples, ass, etc. They are great and super cheap usually.

6. Clit Clamp

The clit clamp is one sex toy that you are going to want to get used to off cam first. It does cause pain when applied but it does not cause a lot of pain like you would think. It is used to build up frustration (from not giving into orgasm). The slight pain that it does cause is actually arousing. You can make use of this night little toy with or without a partner.

7. Clitoral Pump

This night little gadget is one you probably know nothing of. While the name is strange sounding, it is not exactly a fear invoking object. The point of this one is to apply suction to the clit and this of course will heighten the senses and make the labia and clitoris enlarge. This is great for producing better orgasms and is another great addition to your show that does not require a partner present.

8. Collar

This toy has many purposes, and is relatively cheap depending on where you get it. It can be used with a partner to signify their control over you, to allow restraint, etc. This can also be worn to show that you are a submissive. You can get collars that have been fitted with an O-ring so that you can attach a lead, harness, or other bondage equipment. You do not have to have a partner with you for this one.

9. Electro Sex Toys

These sex toys have attachment that can make everything fun (dildos, butt plugs, electrified gloves, etc.). The point of the electro toys is to provide the user with vibration sensation that has a deeper-penetrating feeling that is amazing. With these you can start off slow and go up from there so that you are comfortable with the speed and sensations. I would try this out off cam first and get used to it. These are great for using with or without partners.

10. Kegel Balls

These balls have many different names (love balls, Geisha balls, etc.). These are a specific type of balls that were created to be inserted into the vagina for the purpose of exercising and strengthening the pelvic floor. However, because of the weight of these balls they are often used as sex toys that can provide pleasurable sensations to whoever is using them while also providing them with some exercise for the kegel muscles. These really do work great and they can be used with or without a partner.

Now, those are just some of the toys that you can get for you show. After having discussed sex toys we are now ready for the topic of outfits. The outfits that you wear on cam do directly affect the way that your users view you. So, make sure that you are wearing outfits that suit your on cam persona (next chapter). Of course, lacey panties, bras, corsets, and nylons are all must haves. You are probably also going to want clothes for over those so that you can strip for your users.

Chapter 6 Picking An On Cam Personality

Picking out your on cam peronality is not going to be as easy as you think. Your personality that you already have has to be compatible with the personality that you pick. It is important to pick an on cam personality because users love them and attach to them more easily in comparison to the bipolar personalities that everyone normally has. So, here's a list of personalities to choose from that are loved by users:

1. The Friend - The friend personality is probably the most neutral personality to adapt to. It is an easy one (except for the that lean more toward dominant or princess). This personality is where you act friendly and pretty much be yourself, but a more open version.

To obtain this personality you just have to get into the nice personality mind set. That is usually super easy people to do. With this personality you can have more leeway with how you decorsate, dress, etc. However, it might be a hard personality to adapt to for those who are more dominant or princess in their personalities. With this personality you will be acting like every user is your closest friend and share your inner self with them. This personality has no trouble talking about their past, present, or future. A lot of cam girls go with this personality simply because it is super easy to maintain, and less likely for slip ups to happen. However, it is not a niche personality and users pay less to see it simply because it is less fun.

2. The Submissive - The Submissive is a second favorite for a lot of cam girls. It means learning a few things though. So, that makes it a hard personality to adapt to if you have trouble remembering rules. However, if you are some one used to putting on a front every time you are out, you will have an easy time with this one.

To obtain this personality you will have to learn how to open yourself up while closing yourself to the world at the same time. You have to be timid while willing to follow orders. You are going to have to make yourself more of the type of person who would say yes to a lot of things rather than being stuborn. This means that you are going to have to practice with your answers. This personality is fun to dress up for and to theme your studio after. Users fall in love with this personality super quick. Also, this is one of the highest paid personalities next to the dominant personality. If you are the type that likes to argue back or the type who likes having control over everything, you are probably not going to fall into this personality easily.

3. The Dominant - The dominant personality is one that is another favorite for cam girls. It is really an easy personality to do, even for those that are submissive. Pretty much anyone can perform with this personality after practicing a little bit. However, it might be a hard personality to follow through with if you have a hard time taking control of situations.

To obtain this personality you are going to have to learn how to take control. You are going to have to learn how to demand things of others. You are also going to have to learn how to make your voice and body posture seem strong and sure. No one wants a dominant who seems to doubt every move that they make. This is another personality that is super fun to shop for when thinking about outfits, themes for your studio and sex toys. This personality is one that I have found to be the highest paying personality for on cam. Users just love to be taken control of, even if it is just on cam. For those of you out there that are controlling already in real life this personality will be super easy. However, it may not be easy if you find yourself the type who never looks others in the eyes, can't command things of others, etc.

4. The Princess - Believe it or not, this personality is not found in many girls. That is what makes it such a great one to do. This one is easy to do if you have the right mindset. I would recommend trying it out for a week or two off cam to make sure that you are actually up to the task.

In order to obtain this personality you are going to have to get used to getting everything you want. However, while closely related to the dominant personality, this one has two major differences. You will be taking order as well as receiving orders with this personality and you are not going to be in control of any situation. This personality depends highly on users. You have to be demanding while being willing to do things in order to get what you want. Also, this personality is super fun to shop for. You get to buy pretty pink and purples things. You studio, outfits, and toys are going to look like every girls dream come true. This personality may be rare, but it is also very high paid.

5. The Goth - The Goth personality is an easy one to do for almost anyone. This personality does not have many requirements and is easily able to be shaped any way. This personality is not found among many models, but is perfect for those who are not ready for the dominant role but would like to be able to fill that role eventually.

To obtain the goth personality you should be willing to wear lots of black, have lots of piercings and possibly some tattoos. With this personality you are going to be more of an in control person in comparison to the submissive, but less so than the dominant. You are also going to be a little dark in your personality and be bitchy. This personality is paid higher than the friend personality, but less than the submissive, princess, and dominant personalities.

These are not all of the personalities to choose from, but they are the highest paid and the easiest to adapt to for everyone.

Chapter 7 Social Networking

Social networking is important when you are working as a cam girl. Your job does not end when you are off cam, not if you want to make the most money that you can. If you thought that was your only job description, you are going to have your work cut out for you. There are manythings you are going to have to do, making your job seem more at first (you get used to it). Here is your to do list for social networking:

1. Cam Name

You are going to have to pick you cam name out before you start with social networking. This name should not be the same as your real name and should not be close to your real name.

2. Twitter

You are going to make a Twitter account in your cam name. After you have done that you will be posting on this account once a day. Make sure that this post contains something sexy or something funny from your life (I am dripping wet over here, who's ready to play? My cat decided that it would be funny to knock down my drink on my keyboard, now it's all sticky.). After doing that you are going to put your link I that post (the link to your cam show and any referral link you may have).

3. Google Plus

You are going to need to create a Google Plus account in your cam name. After that you will need to search in groups and find groups using keywords in the search like cam girls, sex, sexy girls, naked women, on cam, sex chat, etc. Then you are going to add yourself to those groups. Everyday you will make a post and copy and paste it into each group you are a part of. These posts should be similar to the ones I suggested you make for Twitter.

4. Facebook

With Facebook you are going to have to start up a new account in your cam name. Then you are going to want to add anyone who is a guy that friend requests you. After having done that you are going to make a post every day to the account that is similar to the post that you make for Twitter. Make sure that you are obeying the site’s rules about language in your posts. Also, make sure that when adding friends you look at all the girl’s profiles and make sure that they are not too innocent looking before adding them. Men, it's ok to just add.

5. Meetme

Meetme is a great place for people looking for sex, and that makes it a great place to get your links posted. So, sign up for a new Meetme account in your cam name. After having done that make sure to make one post per day. Every post that you do make should be similar to the ones I suggested for Twitter. Don't forget to put your links in your posts. Forgetting that will make it almost a worthless post. Also, you are aloud to do more sexy talking on here in comparison to other sites (meaning that you can use that fun language like pussy, cock, etc.). You can also have more sexual looking photos on this site. Although, I believe complete nudity is still not aloud.

6. Adultspace

Adultspace is very similar to Meetme in the fact that pretty much everyone there is looking to get off or get laid. That, of course, makes it a great place to go for posting your links to your show. You are going to want to create a new account in you cam name. After having created your new account you should make sure to post each day to the site. Every post should contain similar text to what I suggested for your Twitter account posts. Make sure that you are putting your link to your cam show and your referral links into each post.

7. Snapchat

Snapchat is another platform that has loads of users looking for sex and ways to get off. That is why it is perfect for cam girls who are looking to share their links and post stuff. First you are going to have to create a new account in your cam name. After you have successfully created your account you are going to want to start posting once a day on this account. You should follow along with the template I created for Twitter posts above when posting here. Also, make sure that you are remembering to put your links in every one of these posts.

8. Blog

Yes, you should create a blog. Once you have enough money you should also hire someone to build you a website for posting on, selling items, etc. When creating your blog make sure to only use your cam name for it. You are going to want to find a blog creating site that let's you sell stuff too. This way you can sell stuff like used panties, sex toys, dates, etc. You should be posting to your blog once per day. Make sure that you follow along with the template I provided for Twitter, but make these posts longer (around 400 words).

Those are all the social networking sites you should have to deal with. You are probably going to spend around 1 to 2 hours at first posting with these sites. Once you build up your fan base enough you can drop posting down to once or twice a week. Remember when creating these accounts to block all your family and friends that you don't want knowing about your new job. Always check out the rules for each site reguarding language use (swearing) and nudity. Also, make sure that the location you use for all of these accounts is different from your real one.

Conclusion

After reading this guide you are probably excited to get started making money. It is super easy to be a cam girl, but it can be hard to be a cam girl who makes loads of money. It is only hard in the beginning though. It will take you around 8 hours a day working at first, but then your schedule will eventually be down to 5 hours or so working.

Making moneys is as simple as learning how to pick out a cam, finding a computer, building your new studio, picking out outfits and sex toys, picking out a persona, and social networking. While that may seem like a lot, it really is not.

If you follow along with my tips and tricks you will find yourself rolling on the dough in no time. Everything in this book has helped cam girls all over the world with making their fortunes, these tips and tricks are What the highest paid models go by. If you can follow along with them you will be making six figures yearly easily.

Chapter 8 Best Live Cam Websites

One of the most important parts of becoming a model is making sure that the site you are working for is a good one to go with. So, I have listed all the sites that I think are the best and why they are the best.

Platforms covered in this chapter

Choose a platform below to open its model signup page.

1. Chaturbate

1. Chaturbate

If you are looking for a site to go to for the most exposure as a new model, Chaturbate is the way to go. This platform except all models (woman, man, couples, transsexual).

Their site offers $10 to the model who has the most views in their room every hour, and they also pay $5 to the second place model. This is a very nice bonus that can certainly come in handy when paying the bills.

With their site there are the free shows, private shows, and spy shows. The free shows are where you earn most of your money (with tips). However, the private shows and spy shows offer big bucks as well. With this platform you are allowed to advertise to your blog and social media accounts on the site.

Chaturbate is well known among those in the camming industry. They have lots of neat tools for models to access and they pay out twice a month. The minimum for payout is only $50, making it super easy to get to your money even on slow days (in the beginning it is always slow for models).

Pros

- Bots - The site offers models access to bots that are amazing. These bots can do anything from running your entire show to playing games with users.
- Users - This site is SUPER popular, meaning that there is a lot of traffic coming and going (more tips to be made)
- Tips - It is SUPER easy to make great tips on this platform. The users are very generous when they love your show.
- Bonuses - They are always offering special bonuses to the hardest working models.

Cons

- Competition - With lots of traffic comes lots of competition. This means that it can be hard in the beginning to get many followers.

2. LiveJasmin

LiveJasmin is one of the harder sites to start working for if you are a new model. They are one of the sites that requires a very high quality webcam and very high speed internet. However, if you have followed along with this guide, you should be fine in both of those areas.

It does take a long time for your application to be approved. Support is also very slow when it comes to responding. It took them a long time to accept my ID. Also, support did not understand English very well.

Models have access to normal levels of privacy. They have the option to block users from specific countries and regions. However, there are some countries that you are not able to bam simply because most of the users come from there.

Their site is very hard to navigate for new users. However, if you are an experienced model it is only slightly complicated.

They do get a lot of traffic to their site. Around as much traffic as you see with Chaturbate. However, there are a lot of users that don't pay, and those users mess with models sometimes too. I have seen models receive fake tips (idk how it happens, but it does).

The commission you make on this site is pretty great. Models can make between 30% and 60%, depending on their rank in the system. The minimum for this site is $100. This is still not bad, leaves room for if you have had a bad week.

Pros

- Great Commission - Models can earn between 30% and 60%.
- Non-Nude Category - The site offers a non-nude category for models that are interested.
- Traffic - They have a lot of traffic coming in. Comparable to Chaturbate with the amount of users they have.

Cons

- Application Process - The application process takes forever, and they are known for rejecting good ID pictures.

  Support Slow-Hardly hear back from them, when do takes forever.

  High Quality Gear Required Right Away- They require that you have the best gear and internet right away. Where as other sites will let you get away with having lower quality gear in the beginning.

3. Stripchat

Stripchat is one of the more popular sites around. The platform was created by the same people who came up with XHamster. It is very easy for new models to start out with this platform. They accept women, men, transsexual, and couples.

Their site offers models competitive pay, covers chargebacks, and they even offer their models payouts that come every week. Like Chaturbate, models make 5 cents per token and the minimum payout is $50.

Yes, you can work for their site without having super high quality equipment. However, the better quality equipment and internet that you have, the more money you are going to be making.

Of course, it is very hard to answer the question of How Much you can make with Stripchat. However, if you work hard and follow along with the tips and tricks in this guild you will be making six figures easily. The average tip is around 25 tokens ($1.25)for new models. That means that you can expect to make at least $50 to $100 a day when first starting out. After you have built your fan base that number will grow significantly.

This site offers models access to public shows, private shows, spy shows, and cam2cam. Of course, each show type offers different types of revenue. However, most of the money you make will probably come from public and private shows. Models can use the public shows to make money with tips, tips goals, tip games, interactive sex toys(those sex toys that vibrate every time someone tips you), etc.

With their site you can also sell your photos and videos (similar to Chaturbate). This means that you can put pictures up as well as videos and make money off cam as well as on cam.

Their site is compatible with LoveSense and OhMiBod. The tipping portion of their site comes with a few different tiers. These tip tiers are all going to make different sounds, making it easy to use the LoveSense and OhMiBod tools. You will find that the interactive sex toy shows are pretty popular (guys love being able to control your orgasm over cam).

Their sites does offer regional blocking and privacy protection for their models. The models can block any country that they are not trying to be seen modeling for. However, be careful in doing this (You are going to be blocking huge chunks of audience). Also keep in mind that users do have sneaky ways of getting around blocking, so there is still a chance that your dad might see your show.

Pros

- Content Selling - You can sell your pictures and videos.
- Interactive Toys - The site is compatible with interactive toys, meaning that you can make even more money with tips.
- Weekly Payouts - Their sites offers models weekly payouts and competitive pay.

Cons

- Blocking Countries - While it is nice to be able to have some privacy, it would be better if they offered state blocking as well so you wouldn't have to block an entire country of users.
